

About us

My Sistah's Pink Journey is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit foundation located in the heart of Detroit, Michigan, established in 2017 by Dawn K. Floyd. As a recent survivor of breast cancer, she is familiar with the needs of someone battling the disease. During treatment the side effects of medication can interfere with one's ability to work and their physical & emotional well-being. As such, Dawn wanted to assist in alleviating the burden of financial stress of patients going through treatment.

MSPJ seeks to help lessen external stressors, so patients can focus their attention and energies towards what is most important, fighting through the grueling battle of cancer and healing.

MSPJ now offers three options for schools to support this initiative:

- Schools may choose to solely focus on garnering monetary donations with 100% of proceeds placed towards family financial relief efforts.
- Schools may elect to have 100% of collected monetary donations be used to purchase qualifying items (item list will be provided) and create Comfort Care Packages to be donated to patients. Students who assist with the creating of the Comfort Care Packages will earn community service hours.
- Schools may also adopt a patient and their family for Thanksgiving. Your donation will allow MSPJ to purchase and deliver delicious catered family meals to alleviate the need to cook for the holiday.

With your support, we will be able to help countless women and their families.

We thank you in advance for your consideration in supporting this initiative.

Sincerely,

Dawn K. Floyd, Founder-MSPJ
